ON THE WAR PATH.

Colerow's Band Causing Terror and Devastation in Colorado.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 16.—A battle between the Utes and Sheriff Kendall's party was fought on Beaver Creek Tuesday last. Four Indians were wounded, one of them said to be mortally. The Indians made two or three attempts to break through the sheriff's lines, but were repulsed, and the battle was carried on at long range. Thursday, Kendall's party had another skirmish with the hostiles on Milk river. The fighting lasted about an hour, when the Indians drew off and took to the hills. As soon as possible a party will be made up and sent out to reinforce Kendall.

Gov. Adams has received a telegram from Adjutant General West at Glenwood Springs containing an appeal from Sheriff Kendall for assistance. In response the governor has ordered the cavalry companies at Denver, Colorado Springs, Leadville and Aspen to start for the front at once. They leave for the seat of war at once. The governor has also telegraphed Gen. Crook at Omaha, that the situation is becoming serious, and urging the War Department to protect the settlers.

Families Seeking Safe Quarters.

RAWLINS, W. T., Aug. 16.—A messenger has arrived here from White River, Colorado, who reports that about 150 Utes are fighting at Beaver Creek, 15 miles from Meeker. Families are rushing into Meeker, and more Indians are coming. The country is all on fire below Meeker, between the White and Bear rivers. One hundred mounted men will march on the Utes.

Abandoning Everything.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—A special from Grand Junction, Col., states that the manager of the Philadelphia Cattle Company came in yesterday from Colerow's camp to the Uintah reservation below Rangely. The Indians forced his party back, and drove them before them at full speed. Drecker, Roth and other cattlemen are riding day and night, gathering up their cattle and hurrying them from the White River range. All settlers in that locality have been warned by white couriers to leave, and they are abandoning everything to get away before the Indians arrive from the reservation.

J. F. Page, bookkeeper for the large wholesale stationery house of C. O. Beauchram & Co., of Montreal, raised a $25 check on the Jaques Cartier Bank yesterday to $25,000, cashed it and absconded. He is well connected, but has been speculating in bucket shops.

R. S. Scott, former paying teller in the Manhattan Bank, New York, who absconded in 1885, with $160,000 of the bank's securities has made a confession to Consul General Wall in London, implicating John R. Dunn, a New York broker. Dunn has been arrested.

In the Superior Court at Fitchburg, Mass., yesterday, Peter J. Finnegan, who shot and killed his wife at Worcester, July 4th, was convicted of manslaughter through criminal carelessness. His counsel took exceptions to Judge Pitman's rulings.

An Aged Citizen Dead.

BOWDOINHAM, Aug. 16.—Col. Josiah Merrow died at his residence in Bowdoinham on Monday, at the advanced age of 93 years, being the oldest person in town. Col. Merrow came to this town in the year 1817 and begun life as a shoemaker, afterward entering into trade. He has repeatedly been called by his fellow citizens to fill offices of trust. He served as selectman for 27 years. He has been in both branches of the State Legislature, has been a member of the Governor's Council, and was sheriff of old Lincoln county when Lewiston was a part of it, and has held many other positions. His title of colonel he received from the old State Militia. His wife still survives him, and she is 92 years old. They had been married 70 years.

For $8700 Damages.

MT. VERNON, Aug. 16.—Mr. Jarius Dolleff and his son, Fred B. Dolleff, have sued the town of Mt. Vernon for $8700, for damages and bodily injuries caused by an accident on the road from Lock's Corner to Benjamin B. Dudley's, a few months ago. It is understood that the case will be contested.

Nearly Over.

WATERVILLE, Aug. 17.—The strike in the Lockwood Mills is about ended. Most all the strikers returned to their work Monday morning. All but four of the mules are running and half of the ring spinning.

A Fast Set in Belfast.

BELFAST, Aug. 16.—Two years ago several fast young men residing in Massachusetts came to Northport camp ground, took rooms at the Waverly House, and having a large stock of liquor began a prolonged debauch. For a while they had full swing, putting lamp posts into wells, removing street signs, etc. Sunday some of the crowd again made made their appearance bringing about fifteen gallons of liquor which was seized by order of Hon. Hiram Ruggles, and since then the owners have vowed vengeance on Ruggles and have been fighting in the courts to regain their liquor. Monday night the pretty white cottage of Superintendent Ruggles was sadly disfigured by caricatures and words put on with lamp black and oil. Great excitement prevails and detectives are at work on the town.

Suicide at Sanford.

SANFORD, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Patrick Welch committed suicide with Rough on Rats today. She leaves a husband and two children. The cause is unknown.

Grand Army Festivities.

ROCKLAND, Aug. 16.—The camp fire of Edwin Libby Post, G. A. R., given last night in honor of the guests, Hiram G. Berry Post of Malden, Massachusetts, was a very enjoyable occasion, many of the visitors participating. Today the veterans rendezvoused at Crescent Beach, where a big clam bake and fish dinner were served, followed by toasts, responded to by ex-Mayor Case of Rockland, C. E. Littlefield, Hon. D. N. Mortland and Rev. L. L. Hanscom. This evening there will be a grand reception and ball at Farwell Hall, which has been decorated for the occasion. A concert will be given by the Orpheus Club before the ball. Tomorrow the guests will be driven to points of interest in this vicinity, embarking on the steamer Mary Morgan at noon for Bangor. Everything thus far has passed off very pleasantly.

Presque Isle National Bank.

PRESQUE ISLE, Aug. 16.—The Presque Isle National Bank was organized today. The directors are Llewellyn Powers of Houlton, Peter Dunn of Oakland, W. E. Spaulding of Caribou, C. F. A. Johnson, L. S. Judd, Charles P. Allen, George H. Freeman, James W. Bolton and Jarvis Hayward of Presque Isle. The directors chose these officers:

President—Charles P. Allen.
Vice President—James W. Bolton.
Cashier—A. H. Jenks.

Meetings at Old Orchard.

OLD ORCHARD, Aug. 16.—The second day of the Portland District Methodist Campmeeting opened at Old Orchard at 8 o'clock this morning. At 10 o'clock Rev. S. Hooper of Berwick, preached a sermon. Nearly all the Methodist clergymen in the district are present.

The afternoon service at the camp ground was preceeded by devotional services in the various tents. The children's meeting at 1.30, was conducted by Mrs. Benj. Freeman of Chebeague. The afternoon sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Hewitt of Monmouth, upon "Consistency and the power of the love of Christ." Tonight prayer and praise services were held in the tents, followed by a preaching service.

Owing to sickness Rev. L. L. Townsend of Boston, was not in attendance at the Ocean Park meetings, and his first lecture assigned for today was postponed until tomorrow. In its stead a lecture was given by ex-President Dunn of Hillsdale College, on "Monarchy and poverty of all the world." Rev. F. H. Bailey, D. D., preached the evening sermon. A grand musical entertainment will be given tomorrow evening.

A Fire and Accident.

SACO, Aug. 16.—The farm house of Arthur Nunan at Cape Porpoise, was gutted by fire yesterday. Most of the furniture was saved. Fred White, while helping to extinguish the flames, was overcome by the smoke and fell from a ladder. At last accounts he was still unconscious.

A Somewhat Noted Case.

ROCKLAND, Aug. 16.—Sunday, July 12, 1885, J. E. Eaton, proprietor of the Medomak House, Waldoboro, lost a valuable horse and other property in the burning of the Belfast Livery Company's stables. Mr. Eaton sued the Livery Company, claiming that through their negligence and gross carelessness, drunken men were admitted to the stable loft wherein there was a large quantity of dry hay, which was set on fire by the reckless and drunken men, thus admitted to the loft. The case was tried at the October, 1885, term of court for Lincoln county. After the evidence was heard, Judge Danforth, the justice presiding, ordered a non suit. J. E. Hanley, Esq., of this city, the plaintiff's attorney, filed exceptions to the rulings of the judge. The exceptions the law court have sustained. The following rescript has been received:

Eaton vs. Lancaster et. als. The Court cannot say that there was no evidence introduced by the plaintiff which, if believed by the jury, would have authorized the verdict. Hence the non suit was improperly ordered. The exceptions are sustained.

J. E. Hanly for plaintiff.
Folger and Harriman of Belfast, for defendant.

Poor Ice Cream.

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 16.—The family of William Turner is in a very bad fix, from the effects of tyrotoxicon in ice cream eaten on Friday. Mr. Turner, who is the senior member of the largest milling firm here, happened to be absent, but every other member of the family was stricken on Saturday morning. Mrs. William Turner is very ill, as is Roderick McKenzie, a young artist and a protege of the Turners. The others ill are two daughters, Mrs. H. E. Jenks and Mrs. A. Wing; two grandchildren, Willie Jenks and Bessie Iron, and three servants. All of the family are in bed, most of them suffering much.

CAY KINEO.

The Great Influx of Tourists to Moosehead Lake.

Many Young Ladies Who Can Go in Canoes Like Indians.

An Expedition That Will Put a Tin Helmet on Katahdin.

[Special to the Press.]

MOUNT KINEO, Aug. 16.—The season here is now at its height. Many who have been enjoying the sea air at Bar Harbor are now here enjoying the mountain air and the unrivalled scenery about the Lake and the Mountain. The travel on the Lake has quite outgrown the capacity of the little Rebecca, and the larger steamers have been called into requisition for the passenger transportation service. Three hundred and fifty people have arrived at the Kineo House since the first of August. These are from all parts of the United States. A large delegation is here from Philadelphia, including several members of the Lippencott family. Many have come from Kentucky and Tennessee, Louisville and Nashville people. Some have come from California, but the majority of the guests are from the middle and New England States, old patrons of the resort, who are as regular as the season in their arrival.

A considerable number of Maine people have been here, including many from Portland. Among the Portland people who have come this month are: W. E. Plummer and wife, Thomas Shaw and wife and Miss H. L. Shaw, E. H. Elwell and wife, Charles McNeal, W. C. Eaton and George W. Barnes. From Augusta there are here Elias Milliken and wife, from Bath M. G. Shaw, from Waldoboro Mrs. Helen M. Smith and Harry M. Smith.

There is a great deal of gaiety here now, as this is the heighth of the season for those who come here for the air, the scenery and the society. The ball room was never more patronized, and never by a gayer throng. Canoeing is very popular, and many of the young ladies are becoming very much at home in the tittlish "birch," or its no less tittlish counterpart, the canvas canoe. For the last week the weather has been delightful, and these pleasures, with buckboard riding and the pathway to the mountain, have been enjoyed to the utmost.

A number of scientists, members of the Appalachian Mountain Club, are on an expedition to Mount Katahdin. They expect to arrive at the summit of the mountain about Saturday of this week. On arriving they will place on the summit a large cone of burnished tin, twelve inches in diameter and 000 each. Add to this the loss of business and the damage to property and the disaster will cost the company above a million.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—A despatch to The News from Chatsworth says: "A statement was made by J. T. Bullard, a citizen highly respected, to a reporter today. Mr. Bullard says that he saw section men carry water into the house of the section foreman on Wednesday afternoon between 2 and 4 o'clock, while before the coroner's jury the section foreman and his men testified that they were on the road at the time mentioned. Mr. Bullard was disinclined to say much, but from his remarks and those of other residents, it is inferred the road was not examined on Wednesday, despite the instructions received by the section foreman from the roadmaster. 'Wednesday morning,' Mr. Bullard said, 'the station agent, who is my neighbor, told me that extraordinary precautions had been ordered to be taken, as a heavy passenger train was expected.'"

Where the Blame Rests.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 16.—J. B. Stevens, general solicitor and attorney for the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad, says the testimony before the Coroner today, lays the whole blame of the recent disaster on Timothy Coughlan, the section boss. He was ordered to go over the entire length of the section on the day of the excursion, to see that all was right, and didn't go near the western end. He set fire to the grass near the bridge and then didn't look after it. Coughlan claims he was sick. He will be discharged and may be indicted.

IN BEHALF OF RIDDLEBERGER.

An Explanation of the Trouble With Judge Newman.

WOODSTOCK, Va., Aug. 16.—The following is a statement for Senator Riddleberger by a friend; "Much has been said, written and telegraphed to various papers throughout the United States concerning Senator Riddleberger's confinement in jail for contempt of court, much of which is untrue and has emanated from the minds of personal enemies to the Senator and bitter partisans. The affair has created intense excitement, much bitter feeling, and no little alarm throughout this section, and it would have taken little more to fan the embers into a fierce flame. Riddleberger is personally popular even with the bulk of his political enemies, while Judge Newman is just the reverse. In order to give a true account of this unhappy affair, I will sum up briefly from the commencement. Last Friday evening Senator Riddleberger was sent to jail for a contempt of the County Court over which Judge Newman presided, and who is a bitter personal and political enemy of the Senator. The term was fixed at five days, with an additional term of five days added because the Judge claimed that the Senator resisted the Sheriff when he attempted to execute the order of the court, which is not correct, as the Sheriff and his deputies will testify to any fair man, and have so stated repeatedly since the arrest. Riddleberger went quietly with the Sheriff to jail, accompanied by a large crowd of friends, who were greatly excited and indignant at the action of Judge Newman and insisted that he should not go into the jail; but the Senator, in order to have no disturbance of the peace, especially during the election, prevailed with his friends, saying it was his duty as a law-abiding citizen to conform to the decision of the court, and he quietly and smilingly entered the jail from which, by his eloquence and skill as a lawyer, he has saved so many.

"Notwithstanding his earnest appeals, his friends were not satisfied, at about 12 o'clock that night they rushed in and took him out, as he was rescued therefrom. The Senator refused to go, but his friends were positive and determined and took him out against his wishes and his earnest protests. They knew that the law made no attempt to rearrest him, and he remained at home until yesterday morning. After spending Saturday with his family the Senator proceeded from his home and appeared at the door of the jail and surrendered himself to the jailer. He remained in jail awaiting the return of the Judge, who in a very pointed address sending him to jail, adjourned the Court until Monday morning and left for Seven Fountains, a summer resort in the mountains about eight miles from Woodstock, before the Senator, his attorney or friends could take any action in the matter. For this he has been severely censured, even by his friends, as it was an unheard of proceeding by a Virginia Judge, no lawyer having remained in prison before for the attempt of court more than a few hours, as it was never understood to be a punishment, but was done simply to uphold the dignity of the court and the law. Great excitement has prevailed.

"Senator Riddleberger will to-day at all hazards leave the jail at 12 o'clock noon as he will then have served his term of five days for contempt of court. The Senator will forfeit his bond, and the Sheriff will be compelled

THE PRESS.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 17.

We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

We cannot undertake to return or preserve communications that are not used.

Prince Ferdinand certainly has courage. It may turn out that that quality in him is far superior to his discretion.

The more the Chatsworth disaster is investigated the more certain it becomes that the burning of the bridge was not the result of design, but of carelessness, which the road will have to pay for.

Ex-Gov. Stanford's refusal to explain to the Pacific railroad commission the uses to which the Central Pacific funds were put will confirm the impression already prevailing that they were not legitimate uses.

The story of the sinking of an American schooner off Buctouche by a shot from a Canadian cruiser implies altogether too accurate firing on the part of the Dominion navy to command belief.

Mr. Ives flatters himself that all his swindling operations have been carried on without transgressing the letter of the law, and smiles complacently when his prosecution is suggested. The iniquity of his operations trouble him not, so long as he is not exposed to the danger of punishment. Yet he is as bad a rascal as Fish or Ward or Jake Sharp.

Mayor O'Brien of Boston says the reception to Mr. John L. Sullivan which he attended was a very orderly and respectable show. It may have been according to the standard of the "Boston of the Collinses and the O'Briens," but what would the Boston of the Puritans have said to its official head patronizing an exhibition in honor of a notorious bruiser and brute?

A New York Democrat, who is described as "on quite intimate terms with both President Cleveland and Governor Hill," is quoted as authority for the statement that, if Mr. Cleveland wants another nomination, Mr. Hill will not antagonize him. Of course not. The Democrats of New York love a practical spoilsman, and Hill and every one else knows that President Cleveland just fills the bill.

The Democratic State Committee of Massachusetts has appointed a sub-committee to inquire into the holding of Federal offices in that State by Republicans. Their report will probably show that the President has not been a good enough civil service reformer to satisfy the Independents nor a good enough spoilsman to satisfy the Jacksonian Democracy. The Boston Post doesn't think this performance is calculated to help the Democracy carry the State in November and is heartily ashamed of it.

A New York police captain is of the opinion that since the liquor shops serve as places of Sunday resort for thousands of men who have not cheerful homes, the harm that they engender might largely be avoided were there reading rooms, libraries and the like open on Sundays here and there over the city. He assumes that at present the open liquor saloon is a necessity of the New York Sunday. Certainly the poor success of attempts to close the saloons on Sunday shows that dominant opinion coincides with the assumption of the police captain.

It is now more than two centuries since an Indian massacre at Old Falmouth drove the people from their homes and forced them to take refuge on Cushing's Island, in the vicinity of White Head. Almost every one in Portland knows the historical fact; many have sought to identify the place where the frightened settlers rallied, under the direction of their pastor; but few pause to picture to themselves what must have been the horrors of that flight. It is too far in the past; the task of depicting the horrors of Indian massacres may be left to history. It is for this reason very difficult to realize that in a space of time, not greater probably than it took for one of the refugees of old Falmouth to reach Boston with his story of woe, there might come to us a refugee from a community that is now experiencing just such terrors as the fathers of Portland went through over two hundred years ago. The despatches from Colorado tell us of cattlemen riding night and day with Indian bands behind them and panting herds ahead; of swift horsemen galloping from house to house with the terrible cry that the "Indians are coming;" of fathers and mothers gathering their children about them and leaving their homes to plunder in the hope that they may save themselves from the tomahawk and the stake. It is the same old story, to us too old to get excited about, yet fearfully new and real to the poor settlers in the vicinity of White River in Northwestern Colorado. They have all heard how Agent Meeker was murdered and Major Thornburg's command ambushed in 1879, and of Chief Colcrow, who brings to this outbreak a bad name earned in those troubles.

Probable and Possible Naval Reviews.

The Galena, Yantic, Richmond, Ossipee, Alliance and the new despatch boat Dolphin are already at Bar Harbor, and there is a prospect that the Atlanta may join them in time for a grand review when Secretary Whitney arrives. Such a review, provided all is propitious for its occurrence, will be a very interesting spectacle. It will not be like the review before the Queen of England at Portsmouth last July, which was the greatest naval spectacle the world has ever known. But it will be more impressive than any similar spectacle seen on the coast of Maine for many years. The one or two new war ships will be most interesting, as they are the beginnings of a new navy. Most of the people who at Bar Harbor look upon the Richmond, Ossipee, Yantic, Galena and Alliance are taking their final view of the remains of the old navy; of the new navy of the future they are seeing in the Dolphin, and will see in the Atlanta if she is present, the first examples. It will be several years, probably when the sprightly Secretary Whitney shall have been consigned to the swift oblivion that overtakes most ex-Secretaries who have had no title to prominence but that given by the office, before at Bar Harbor there will be possible a grand review of the new war vessels. But Congress has made all the provisions, and we are to have the new vessels; and they will make a brave and formidable show whenever it shall be possible to review them together. There will be the Dolphin, first and smallest, of 1,485 tons displacement and fifteen knots speed; the Boston and Atlanta, of 3,000 tons and of about sixteen knots speed; the Chicago, of 4400 tons and a speed of fifteen and a half knots; three gunboats, not yet named, of 1700 tons displacement and an estimated speed of sixteen knots; another gunboat of 870 tons and thirteen knots speed; the great cruiser Charleston, of 3,730 tons displacement and the high speed of eighteen knots; the Newark, larger still, of 4,084 tons displacement and an equal speed; the Baltimore, yet larger, with a displacement of 4,413 tons and expected to have the great speed of nineteen knots an hour; two other large cruisers, not yet named, but to have a displacement of 4,084 tons each and a maximum speed of nineteen knots; the double turretted iron monitors Miantonomah, Amphitrite, Monadnock and Terror, of 3,887 tons displacement each; the huge double turreted Puritan, of 6,000 tons displacement, with twelve inches of steel armor on her sides and sixteen on her turrets; a new armored cruiser, of displacement equal to the Puritan's and a speed far greater, equalling probable sixteen or seventeen knots; a new armored line of battle ship, also of 6,000 tons displacement and sixteen or seventeen knots speed; a pneumatic dynamite cruiser, carrying three novel engines of destruction, and capable of steaming twenty knots an hour; a first-class torpedo boat intended to make the extraordinarily quick time of twenty-two knots an hour; the Stiletto, already famed for her wonderful speed, of which Congress has authorized the purchase. In all there are twenty-three modern war vessels which Congress has made provision for and most of which are already completed, in process of construction or under contract. All of them, except the torpedo boats, will carry steel-rifled, breech-loading guns of great power. The great line of battle ship will carry twelve-inch guns, and from this size the ordnance will be graded down to six-inch guns. With good luck and wise liberality on the part of Congress the United States may yet become a first-class naval power.

CURRENT COMMENT.

HOW ABOUT THE LUCE PERFORMANCE?
[Boston Transcript.]

Two of the new gunboats are to be built by the assignees of John Roach, which shows among other things that John Roach's assignees must be better shipbuilders than Secretary Whitney deemed their principal. But then as a political issue the Roach cruisers have proved so ineffective, that Mr. Whitney may have concluded a repetition of the Dolphin foolishness uncalled for.

PERSONAL AND PECULIAR.

Cornell in the busy financial season meet and eat lunch together every afternoon between one and two o'clock in the Western Union building on Broadway, New York. These men represent $300,000,000, but they always eat a very plain lunch at the expense of the Western Union Company. Jay Gould sits at the head of the table. No liquors are served, and after lunch no one of the little group lingers at the table to smoke a cigar.

An account of the funeral of the estimable wife of Judge Sporter in a Dakota paper winds up with the following touching incident: "Just after the funeral Budd Newell happened to mention that he could run the fastest foot race of anybody in the town. The Judge happened to overhear the remark, hurriedly dried his tears, and prompt shoved up $10 that he couldn't. The course was selected on Beacon street, from Fifth avenue to the brewery, and the sorrowing and grief-stricken widower easily beat Budd by about ten yards. Elder Hartshorn acted as starter, and subsequently made some pretty loud threats of licking Mayor Price, who claimed that there was foul play."

Christopher Meyer, who is made conspicuous in the Ives affair, is an elderly man. He looks to be fifty, but acquaintances say he is closer to seventy. It is only a little while ago that he married one of the belles of the city, only a little while out of school. His home is one of the handsomest of Fifth Avenue's mansions. The wealth of Mr. Meyer has been estimated over a wide range of figures, but the littlest is in the millions. He is a magnate of the rubber trade. He has built two or three churches and given them away, just as his friend, Governor Lounsbury of Connecticut, has done, the two Methodist brethren being associated closely in business together. They are perhaps the largest individual owners of the stock of the American Bank Note Company.

Rice Throwing at Weddings.

[Chinese Times.]

In the days of the Shang dynasty, some 1,500 years before Christ, there lived in the province of Shansi a most famous sorcerer called Chao. It happened one day that a Mr. P'ang came to consult the oracle, and Chao, having divined by means of the tortoise diagram, informed the trembling P'ang that he had but six days to live. Now, however much we may trust the sagacity and skill of our family physician, we may be excused if, in a matter of life and death, we call in a second doctor for a consultation, and in such a strait it is not to be wondered at that P'ang should repair to another source to make sure that there was no mistake. To the fair Peachblossom he went, a young lady who had acquired some reputation as a sorceress, and to the tender feminine heart unfolded the story of his woe. Her divination yielded the same result as Chao's; in six days P'ang should die, unless, by the exercise of her magical powers she could avert the catastrophe. Her efforts were successful, and on the seventh day great was Chao's astonishment, and still greater his mortification and rage, when he met P'ang taking his evening stroll, and learned that there lived a greater magician than he. The story would soon get about, and, unless he could put an end to his fair rival's existence, his reputation would be ruined. And this is how Chao plotted against the life of Peachblossom. He sent a go-between to Peachblossom's parents to inquire if their daughter was still unmarried, and receiving a reply in the affirmative, he befooled the simple parents into believing that he had a son who was seeking a wife, and ultimately he induced them to engage Peachblossom to him in marriage. The marriage cards were duly interchanged; but the crafty Chao had chosen the most unlucky day he could select for the wedding, the day when the "Golden Pheasant" was in the ascendant. Surely as the bride entered the red chair the spirit bird would destroy her with his powerful beak. But the wise Peachblossom knew all these things and feared not. "I will go," she said; "I will fight and defeat him." When the wedding morning came she gave directions to have rice thrown out at the door, which the spirit bird seeing made haste to devour, and while his attention was thus occupied Peachblossom stepped into the bridal chair and passed on her way unharmed. And now the ingenious reader knows why he throws rice after the bride.

Before They Had Policemen.

[London Telegram.]

Some curious documents just found in the archives of the Prefecture of Police throw an interesting and instructive light on the manner in which the streets of Paris were guarded during the night in the sixteenth century. To begin with, there were stringent rules to the effect that each house should have only one door and should be regularly inhabited. This being the case, it was a comparatively easy task to order that the dwellers in the different houses should in turn keep an eye on what was going on in their respective streets. They were not compelled to tramp up and down the pavement like the modern policeman; the authorities were satisfied if they looked through their windows and watched all that was going on below. If the slightest cry were raised they opened their windows and rang their bells until their neighbors followed suit. The alarm spread from street to street, and soon all the bells in Paris were ringing, the windows were lit up, and the inhabitants, armed to the teeth, sallied forth, barring the road to the malefactors, who were almost always arrested. I need hardly explain that the Paris of those days was lilliputian in comparison with what it is now; but what an uncomfortable way they had of keeping the peace in the sixteenth century! The remedy was positively worse than the disease, for it was hard that the inhabitants of one street should be awakened out of their first sleep because the dwellers in a remote avenue imagined that something wrong was going on. One would fancy that in some quarter or another some noise at least must have been made every night. The slumbers of the Parisians generally must often have been woefully curtailed, not to speak of the volunteer watchmen, for whom "all night sittings" were a stern reality.

Some Curious Wedding Rings.

[New York Jewelry News.]

In speaking of wedding rings, we learn that these important symbols have not always been manufactured from the precious metal, gold. We are told that in lieu of a ring the church key has often been used; and Walpole tells of an instance where a certain ring was employed. The Duke of Hamilton fell so violently in love with the younger of the celebrated Misses Gunning, at a party in Lord Chesterfield's house, that two days after he sent for a parson, to perform the marriage ceremony; but as the Duke had neither license nor ring the clergyman refused to act. Nothing daunted, Hamilton declared "he would send for the archbishop." At last they were married with a ring of the bed curtain at half past 12 at night at Mayfair Chapel. Forgetful bridegrooms have been reduced to greater straits than this even; in one instance a leather ring had, on the spur of the moment, to be cut out of a piece of kid from the bride's glove. A tragic story of a forgotten wedding ring is told in the "Lives of the Lindsays." When he should have been at church, Colin Lindsay, the young Earl of Balcarres, was quietly eating his breakfast in nightgown and slippers; when reminded that Mauritia of Nassau was waiting for him at the altar, he hurried to church, but forgot the ring; a friend present gave him one, which he, without looking at, placed on the bride's finger. After the ceremony was over, the Countess glanced at her hand and beheld a grinning Death's head on her ring. She fainted away, and the omen made such an impression on her that on recovering she declared that she was destined to die within a year; a presentiment that probably brought about its own fulfillment, for in a few months the careless Colin was a widowe:.

E PRESS.

AY MORNING, AUGUST 17.

WIT AND WISDOM.

—I'm mighty glad I got a revolver as you a... me to. Met a footpad last night.

Jones—No! Shoved it in his face and he surrendered? Knew he would. Always does.

Smith—Well, it was not exactly that way. He stuck a gun in my face and asked for money. Truth is, I never thought of the fact that I was armed. He kept my mind diverted.

Jones—Then what good did your revolver do?

Smith—Lots. He was so mad at not getting money that I was afraid he would be violent, but when he found the revolver it pleased him and he let me go. It was an elegant weapon. But I'm in a hurry.

Jones—Where going?

Smith—After another revolver, of course. Why that weapon saved my life!

Prompt relief in sick headache, dizziness, nausea, constipation, pain in the side, etc., guaranteed to those using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One pill a dose. 25 cents.

Nebraska Farmer—Socialists? Socialists? Oh, yes. I know now what you mean. I've met a good many of you!

Omaha Socialist—Eh? In your parts?

Nebraska Farmer—Plenty. And now I think of it they do want everything in common—except work. Out our way we call 'em tramps.

The well known strengthening properties of IRON, combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills, which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

Uncle Frank—What's the matter, Freddie? You two are not getting along very fast.

Freddy—Why the trouble is that Neddy is used to being driven tandem, and he misses the other donkey. Won't you run along in front of him a little way, please, Uncle Frank, just to get him started?

Peter Shaw, of West Winfield, N. Y., was afflicted with a severe cough, with pain in the side and lungs and general depression, causing himself and friends great alarm. He tried many remedies with no good results. One bottle of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY completely cured him.

Susie—Oh, mamma, I'll never disobey you again.

Mamma—Why, Susie, what have you done?

Susie—Well, I drank my milk at lunch and then ate—a pickle; and the milk said to the pickle, "Get on," and the pickle said, 'I won't,' and they are having an awful time.

Quaker Bitters are as unlike any other preparation as they are superior to all other medicines. The materials, methods and preparations of the compound are the result of the long and successful experience of a pharmacist, who has prepared physician's prescriptions for many years. Every ingredient is warranted pure and unadulterated. One trial will convince you of the worth of Quaker Bitters.

Use Little Quaker Pills; purely vegetable, small, and pleasant to take.

Applicant—I have had considerable experience with children, ma'am, and never have any trouble in making them like me.

Mistress—That is very important.

Applicant—And I am sure I would get on with your little dog, ma'am.

Mistress (stroking the animal)—You will have nothing to do with Fido, dear little fellow! He is my especial charge.

PORTLAND WHOLESALE MARKET.

PORTLAND, Aug. 16, 1887.

The Flour market is attracting more attention, and all grades are up from 10 to 15c a barrel. Minnesota patents are particularly strong and have advanced 20 to 25c within week. Jobbers report a very active business in Flour. Corn is easy here, but not quotably lower, while futures at Chicago were about ½c lower than yesterday Oats show a reduction on bag lots. Pork and Lard quiet and unchanged. In Fresh Beef we notice a sharp rise on loins, which have advanced to 20c ⅌ lb and rumps and loins are quoted higher 15½@16c. Sweet Potatoes 50c off. Poultry is generally steady; turkeys a trifle better.

A GUIDE FOR THE AFFLICTED.

The following will show the way to health to many a down hearted man and woman.

MORAVIA, CAYUGA, CO., N. Y., January 15, 1886.

I have been afflicted for some years with liver complaint, accompanied with dyspepsia and prolonged constipatioo. I was almost in despair, when I commenced using BRANDRETH'S PILLS. I took a course of them for a week—five or six Pills every night. I found myself very much better, but to make everything all sure, continued to take one pilla night for over a month. I am now in a very fair state of health, and I know I shall continue so as long as I take one BRANDRETH'S PILL a night. H. S. R. MATHER.

Advice to Mothers.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub, awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

From John F. Wyman, formerly Postmaster, South China, Me.: "Too much cannot be said of Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam, as it is the best remedy for coughs, colds, etc., that I have ever seen: and to its wonderful effects I owe my recovery. It is well worthy of praise, and I would advise all to use it who are afflicted." Trial bottles 10 cents. aug15eod&w

Angostura Bitters do not only distinguish themselves by their flavor and aromatic odor above all others generally used, but they are also a sure preventive for all diseases originating from the digestive organs. Beware of counterfeits. Ask your grocer or druggist for the genuine article, manufactured by Dr. J. G. B. Siegert & Sons. aug15eod&w1w

Bouquet, Atkinson's new perfume. This superb distillation sweetly recalls fragrant Swiss flowers. Bright jewels, in a setting of perpetual snow.

BATH, Aug. 16.

The August term of the Supreme Judicial court opened this morning with prayer by Rev. Mr. Foss of the Methodist church. The grand jury is the same that was in attendance at the April term.

GREAT ALASKA.

Hon. T. B. Reed Talks of His Visit to the United States.

Some Decided Opinions on the Situation in Utah.

Western Republicans in Solid Column for 1888.

Congressman T. B. Reed was at home when a representative of the PRESS called at his home on Spring street yesterday, and in response to inquiries about his recent trip to the West, replied:

"Yes, I have been visiting the United States. We had a trip of two months which could not be equalled anywhere else on the face of the earth. Yellowstone Park, the great Columbia River, Alaska, Salt Lake Valley, the canons of the Denver and Rio Grande, the Georgetown Loop on the Colorado Central, and the mountain gorges and cascades near Colorado Springs and Manitou, form a combination of strange and wonderful scenery the like of which no other country in the world can give. When you and I were boys—only a short time ago you remember—the geysers of Iceland were the wonders of the universe, but the Great Geysers of the Yellowstone Park make those of Iceland and all the rest of the world seem very small affairs, not worth a visit. Our geysers spout oftener, spout higher, and there are more of them than the geysers of any other country, which is very gratifying to the patriotic mind. Every hour, never over ten minutes before time and never ten minutes behind the "Old Faithful" pours into the air a stream of water one hundred and fifty feet high, fifty to seventy feet higher than its greatest Iceland competitor which has only one eruption a day. The Beehive sends up a solid column like the trunk of a great tree two hundred and nineteen feet and the Giantess lifts a large mass of water with a central stream 250 feet high. The Castle, which looks like a half dismantled donjon keep of greyish white stone after the water has ceased to flow shoots up for an hour a vast column of steam. Whoever has felt the shake of the earth and heard the roar of the driven water and steam which attends the daily eruption of the Castle can form some idea of the enormous subterranean forces at work at the upper geyser basin.

"But all after the great wonder and beauty of the Park is the Canon of the Yellowstone. It is trying to the nerves to go but it is very delightful to the recollection to have gone for miles along the edge of a gorge swiftly sloping for 2000 feet down to the edge of a rushing river with only room for the horses hoofs on the trail, while the opposite bank just as high, seems almost perpendicular, and both banks are rich with color.

"After we reached Tacoma began our journey to Alaska in the 'Olympian.' We were eleven days. The passage was almost all inland through inlets and channels, and narrow seas. It was like sailing, in fact was sailing, through mountain valleys with the mountain tops emerging from the waters. We stopped at Wrangel to see the Indian village and found it wet and nasty. At Sitka the Indian houses were larger, more cleanly and gave evidences of the civilizing example of the Whites. At Juneau there is a thriving mining town, with sidewalks there and there emerging from the mud. Opposite is Douglass Island, where is the Treadwell gold mine. The owners have erected a mill of 120 stamps, the largest stamp mill in the United States, and in the world. They have begun the work necessary to double the size of the mill. The mine is very valuable and it is thought the vein extends beyond the Treadwell through the whole length of the island.

"Besides the mineral resources of the country, which will soon be pretty thoroughly prospected, in the regions nearest the States the salmon fisheries are utilized somewhat, and the possibilities of the deep sea fisheries are very great."

"Did you see anything of the seal fishery?"

"We did not go within ten or fifteen hundred miles of the Seal Islands. In fact, the great Alaska, itself sixteen times as big as the whole New England States, is beyond Sitka. People have very little idea of the size of our purchase. There is one river in it, the Yukon, which is no mean rival of the Mississippi. What the future of such a country will be no one can tell. We are far enough along, however, to see that it was worth buying. I believe that our people will wring great wealth out of its varied resources. The Indians there will work; do days' works at regular pay; and they show that they appreciate civilized methods, for they have already organized one strike.

"On our return we stopped at Portland, Oregon. It may interest our citizens to know that the Pacific city which was named for ours, is large and flourishing, and beautiful, well built and prosperous, and likely to become the great city we should be if we could annex Canada.

"We were at Salt Lake City four days and heard much discussion over the new State project. I concluded that the two Edmunds bills were putting the Mormons under pretty severe pressure. They were so eager to escape from the control of the United States government that they had called a convention to form a constitution prohibiting what they have hitherto said their religion demanded. When they invited the Gentiles to join them they found both Democrats and Republicans solid against the project. I never saw anywhere more vigorous, enterprising, capable business men than the Gentiles of Salt Lake City. To permit the admission of Utah merely because a constitution had an article against polygamy would leave the Mormons perfectly free to change or to ignore the article and then we should have to "coerce a sovereign State." It is easier to govern a Territory than to coerce a State.

"We were in Colorado a fortnight. That visit dissipated any idea I might have had that there was a Great American Desert somewhere. When I saw as I did at Greely a great cactus plain which used to look like the Valley of Desolation, turned by irrigation into potatoe fields that can be rivalled only in Aroostook, into fields of stout grain and corn, and into fields yielding three crops of alfalfa every year, I became a convert to the faith that there is very little of the United States of America where our people cannot live and rear children and get rich according to the measure of their faculty and luck."

"How did you find politics, Mr. Reed," asked the reporter.

"I heard very little of politics while away. In fact very few people talk politics the year before. Perhaps they are filling up for next year. But I heard enough to satisfy me that the Western Republicans are as devoted to the party as ever and will go into the fight next year with as solid a column as before. In fact there must be large increase, for manufactures are spreading throughout the West and people are beginning to see the advantages of home production."

A Narrow Escape.

A young lady guest at the Waldo, Chebeague Island, had a narrow escape from drowning on Sunday. She has been sketching at various parts of the island, and on that day ventured out on the rocks at low tide. She became so absorbed in her work that she did not notice the incoming tide, which, in a short time, completely surrounded the rock on which she was sitting. The water rose rapidly, and her screams for help were apparently unheard. At last a Mr. Ray was seen hurriedly pulling to the spot, and soon rescued her from her perilous position.

Arrested for Cruelty to a Horse.

Yesterday morning Agent Sawyer received a telephone message asking him to come to East Deering as two men were brutally beating a horse there. Mr. Sawyer drove out immediately but found that the men had fled, going into the city. He learned that they were Daniel H. and Sewell C. Coffin. Officers Thrasher and Fickett were put on their track and soon arrested them. Mr. Sawyer found the horse and took him to Jewell's stable. The men were both drunk and were abusing the horse shamefully.

The "Susquehanna."

Mr. Joseph Stickney, a New York coal dealer, entered the harbor yesterday afternoon in his steam yacht "Susquehanna." The yacht carries a crew of 19 men all told, and is commanded by Captain Cushing. Mr. Stickney is on his way east and will stop but a short time in this city.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Samuel Hanson of Buxton was in town yesterday.

Mr. Walter L. Sawyer, of the St. John Telegram is spending a two weeks' vacation in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Pike, who have been visiting friends in Portland, left for their home at Wichita, Kansas, yesterday.

Mr. C. B. Burleigh, son of Hon. E. C. Burleigh, who has been doing creditable work on the Old Orchard Sea Shell the present summer, has accepted a position on the Lowell Mail.

James H. Hunkins of Biddeford, has entered the employ of a firm in this city, and will remove here with his family. Mr. Hunkins will be remembered as the Hon. W. H. Clifford's opponent in the Democratic Congressional Convention at Biddeford last summer.

A Veteran Engineer.

A few days ago we made allusion to the long term of service, 34 years, as locomotive engineer of Mr. Edward Young of the Maine Central railroad, and now we have the pleasure to mention another similar case. Mr. Charles S. Norcross today completes a connection for a third of a century with the Grand Trunk Railway and its lesser corporation, the Atlantic & St. Lawrence railroad. Mr. Norcross was at first a contractor forty years ago and more upon the Maine Central road, furnishing the material and labor upon the Maranocook bridge. He commenced with the Atlantic & St. Lawrence railroad on the 17th of August, 1854, upon the locomotive engine "Forest City," No. 10, built by the Portland Company, and one of the first which they manufactured. As the result of his ability the two companies have never been called upon to pay a dollar as damage for any accident upon the line in which he was at fault. Many changes and improvements have been made in the manufacture of engines in his time. The "Forest City" weighed thirty tons. Now an engine is demanded, which fer strength and ability for rapid transit will weigh sixty tons, and even eighty tons. When the engine above mentioned was condemned after long use and taken to pieces he secured as a relic of it a brass knob attached to the brass railing used to protect the fireman while oiling the cylinder, and he has had it placed as a bell knob at the side door of his new and handsome house on Cumberland street, near Grove. That oiling process is now done within the cab. Many other improvements have been made within thirty-three years to facilitate the running of engines and to lighten the labor of the engineer, while in England very little progress, comparatively speaking, has been made in this regard. There the engineer has no cab over his head to protect him from the sun, wind or storm, such being the conservatism of English habits. Then the traveling public has demanded a more rapid transit of trains, and engines are so built that they can run through from Portland to Bar Harbor, a distance of 136 miles, without stopping for oiling, or coal, or water.

Did the Fleas Die or Migrate?

A very humane owner of a fine kitten in the western part of the city thought she would do something to kill the fleas that seemed determined to eat pussy to death. So she procured some carbolic acid, undiluted so that no flea might escape, and gave her pet a liberal bath and good scrubbing in it. She then put the cat on the floor and watched in triumph to see the dead fleas drop off as pussy started to walk across the room. But pussy began to tumble instead, showing evidences of weakness in the joints. Her legs gave way to such an extent that walk soon became a lost art for poor pussy. The carbolic acid had poisoned her, a neighbor who happened along said, and it ought to be "washed off," the "quicker the better." So the neighbor, as a last resort, took the cat by the nape of the neck and plunged it into a pail of warm water; but in vain. The cat died, and in her great sorrow the woman at the West End forgot to notice whether the fleas died or migrated. But if they migrated she will know it.

The New Opera.

Mr. George Walter Goold's new opera, "Apollym, or the Friars of Whitehead," was sung for the first time yesterday, by the Wilkinson Opera Company at Greenwood Garden. There were large audiences at both the afternoon and evening performances, and the piece was received with marked favor. The music is bright and taking, and the action of the piece lively enough in the hands of good actors to create abundant amusement, while leaving opportunies for the introduction of solos and duets which, both in words and music, are very pleasing. The dialogue is racy and contains a number of good local hits. The rendition by the Wilkinson Company is excellent and for first performances, the Opera ran yesterday with remarkable smoothness. Mr. Goold conducted and was greeted by the audience with long continued applause. The "Apollym" starts with every indication of a flattering success.

The State Conference of the Young People's Societies of Christian Endeavor in Maine, will be held at the First Baptist church, Lewiston, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 1st and 2d. A very attractive programme has been prepared, in which Dr. Clark of Boston, the founder of the movement, G. M. Ward, Esq., the national secretary, Hon. N. Dingley, Jr., and other prominent men will participate. There are now 2,314 of these societies organized in the country and they are being multiplied very rapidly, especially in the West; 76 have been organized in this State, with a reported membership of 2,568. The conference to be held next month is expected to give new impetus and aggressiveness to the work in Maine. V. Richard Foss is the State Superintendent and S. W. Stevenson the State Secretary.

Mysterious Disappearance.

August 4th a young man by the name of Wm. N. Randall mysteriously left his home in Swampscott, and since that time no trace of him can be obtained. Randall is nineteen years of age, smooth face, medium build and light complexion. He has been talking of going to sea and it is thought possible he has shipped on a Boston or Portland vessel as he has often said he should take a short voyage first. He is of good, steady habits and drives a milk team for his father. The attention of captains of vessels is called to this case and if they have shipped any such young man in Portland, August 4th, they are requested to notify B. C. Crabtree of Lynn, Mass. His parents are much troubled over his sudden disappearance. His father runs a large milk farm in Swampscott, Mass.

Steamer Cadet Disabled.

The steamer Cadet broke down yesterday. Engineer Johnson discovered a flaw in the shaft just before the shaft broke and stopped the engine. The steamer was towed to the Portland Company's wharf where she will be put in running order. It will require two days to repair her. The trips to Cape Cottage will be omitted and with very slight changes in the time table the Emita will cover the route by almost continuous running.

Samuel Clark.

Mr. Samuel Clark of Eliot, who died on Sunday after a short illness of brain trouble, aged 57 years, was well known in York county. Mr. Clark was a farmer's son, and lived on the old homstead, was a successful business man, had held important town offices and had collected the taxes of the town for a number of years. He was engaged in the manufacture of bricks, and had quite a stock of blood horses. He leaves a widow, a daughter and a son.

An Insane Freak.

Monday night, a man working at the Prospect House, Cape Elizabeth, had an insane fit. He seized an iron bar, smashed the windows in the lower part of the house and ran, pursued by the inmates across Pond Cove and into Scott's woods, where he was caught during the night. He was terribly cut and bruised by glass and briars. His name was William Smith.

Good Opportunity.

Next Saturday there will be an excursion to the islands over the Maine Central, Portland & Ogdensburg and the Portland & Rochester railroads, with tickets good to the reunion until Monday. Considering the attractions now being arranged for Saturday, it will be one of the best chances of the season.

Island Notes.

E. Ponce took possession of the restaurant at Long Island, formerly managed by Esse B. Brewster, under a lease. It will be run hereafter by Mr. Ponce with Charles Littlefield as overseer.

An excursion of Knights of Pythias from Cornish, Hiram, Standish, Gorham and So. Windham, with ladies and invited guests, numbering upwards of 500 people, came over the Portland & Ogdensburg road and Star line yesterday, to Peak's Island. There were five lodges of K. P.'s represented, accompanied by Mr. Wm. H. Leavitt and Mr. S. Maxfield of Gambo, the committee of arrangements. A large number of the party dined at the Peak's Island House.

There was a pleasant gathering of friends and relatives at the cottage of Officer Hale last evening. The occasion was a surprise party to Mr. Harris L. Plummer, a nephew of Mrs. Hale, upon his return home from Great Falls, N. H., where he had been absent a year, attending school. Among the party were some thirty of young Plummer's former schoolmates and members of his class. The cottage and its beautiful surroundings was brilliantly lighted with Chinese lanterns and decorated with flags. Supper was served on the lawn. After the festivities, Mr. Charles L. Trew, on behalf of the company, presented Mr. Plummer with a handsome copy of "Benjamin's Story of Persia," accompanied with appropriate remarks. Mr. C. L. Baker, Jr., and others followed with short speeches. Mr. Plummer responded in a happy manner. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing games and singing, Mr. C. L. Trew giving a fine organ accompaniment.

A game of base ball will be played this forenoon by the Pavilion nine and the Greenwood Garden nine.

The Lewiston and Auburn butchers and grocers will go on an excursion to the islands today, by way of the Forest City boats.

Pennell's tenth annual excursion from Harpswell visited the islands yesterday. They were transported by the steamer Forest city, of the Forest City line.

Hot Days

Have a weakening effect, causing loss of strength and a languor of mind as well as body. This condition permits the development of affections and diseases otherwise inactive. In such cases the system readily rallies under the influence of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies the blood, tones and strengthens the digestive organs, and infuses fresh life and energy. Try it this season.

"My wife and myself were both generally run down. Hood's Sarsaparilla brought us out of that tired feeling, and made us feel like young people again. It has done more for us than all other medicines together." RICHARD HAWKHURST, Amityville, Long Island, N. Y.

"When I took Hood's Sarsaparilla that heaviness in my stomach left; the dullness in my head, and the gloomy, despondent feeling disappeared. I began to get stronger, my blood gained better circulation, the coldness in my hands and feet left me, and my kidneys do not bother me as before." G. W. HULL, Attorney-at-law, Millersburg, O.

Perhaps it is rather early yet to say anything about yarns. Possibly there isn't anything in the atmosphere at present suggestive of cold weather, but the arrival to-day of our Fall stock of Germantown, Scotch and Spanish yarns, reminds us that the season for Mittens, Afghans, Hoods and other yarn things is not far off, so a word or two about our own particular stock may as well be said now as later.

Do you know that our store is the only place in Portland where you can get "Columbia" yarns? Every lady who has used this brand knows that is the best in the world; that it is superior in every way to all ordinary makes, and although a skein of it costs a trifle more than some other kinds it is by far the most economical to buy for reasons that we shall be glad to explain when you come for them.

The most important difference between the "Columbia" and other makes is color, and color is an essential thing to consider when you are buying yarns. Is it policy to take the time and trouble to knit yarn that will look when finished as if three or four different shades had been used where one was intended, or have the appearance of being faded in streaks? That's the way with cheap yarns, while a hood knitted from "Columbia" will look clean, brilliant and uniform from top to bottom,—"a thing of beauty and a joy forever." The most you can save by buying inferior yarns is two cents a skein. Is there any reason, then, why you shouldn't use "Columbia?"
